Design Goal(s)

- Must include year founded - 1851

Tool Info

Client has requested the use of either Canva Logo Maker or Adobe Express for this project.

Deliverables

Sample A	Sample B

Explanation: Sample A was made using Canva Logo Maker. The design includes the Department’s name, ADPi, and the year of its founding, 1851. Blue and white were incorporated in accordance with the sorority’s colors. Star designs were also included which visually ties this design the the current ADPi Instagram profile picture/logo.	Explanation: Sample B was made using Adobe Express. The design includes the Department’s name, ADPi, the university it is affiliated with, University of Pittsburgh, and the year of its founding, 1851. Blue and white were incorporated in accordance with the sorority’s colors. A creamier white was used in this sample to maintain contrast while being less harsh on the eyes. “EST.” was included in front of “1851” to clarify the date’s meaning.

Final Deliverable

Explanation: The Final Deliverable was created using Canva Logo Maker. The Client preferred the style and format of Sample A which is incorporated in the final design. In reviewing the samples with the Client, they provided feedback on the shade of blue used in the logo's background. A baby blue is more representative of the sorority's colors than the brighter blue included in Samples A and B. Additionally, the "EST." from Sample B was included in front of "1851" to clarify the date's meaning. A diamond symbol was added on either side of the date to further represent ADPi, as the diamond is the sorority's official jewel and symbol. Finally, the cartoon star design from Sample A was replaced with a star and swirl element which the Client noted was more visually appealing to them. The final design is oriented in a way which will fit well when cropped into the circular, profile picture shape -balancing positive and negative space.
